Why attend?

Rich discussion

INHSU conferences bring together a diverse range of perspectives including people who use drugs, people living with viral hepatitis, advocates, health care providers, program managers, harm reduction experts, researchers, and policymakers.

Interactive sessions

Plenaries, abstract presentations, workshops, networking events, poster tours, and pre-conference events such as our Prisons Day and Community Day enable plenty of opportunity for interaction.

Diverse program

World-leading experts discuss the latest epidemiology and public health research, clinical research, social science and policy research, and best practice models of care for people who use drugs.
